

Methane: It Rots Your BRAIN

Paintings and Drawings by Tim Walsh ©2021

An invisible, deadly gas is leaking into our Earth's atmosphere.

Helping to cause our planet to overheat, unnaturally.

The gas is called methane.

"Fracking," a process used to extract hydrocarbons from the planet, is a major source of methane.

Since methane is invisible, we have often overlooked it.

We can't see it, so it mustn't be there.

But it is.

Causing our environment to overheat.
Shortening lives and challenging hope.

The following paintings and drawings resulted from my attempts to make this gas visible.

In my mind.

In our minds.

If we can imagine it, we can rid ourselves of it.

—Tim Walsh, New York, 2021

Paintings

i primo oil on canvas 34 x 44

l'ultimo oil on canvas 34 x 44

Devil's Breath oil on canvas 32x 46

Permian: no más 26 x 35.75

Neptune laments oil on canvas 32 x 46

Nebuloso oil on canvas 29.5 x 38

by night the fatal odors oil on canvas 16 x 20

their sordid breath oil on acrylic on canvas 30.25 x 38

the soul exhumed oil on canvas 24 x 32

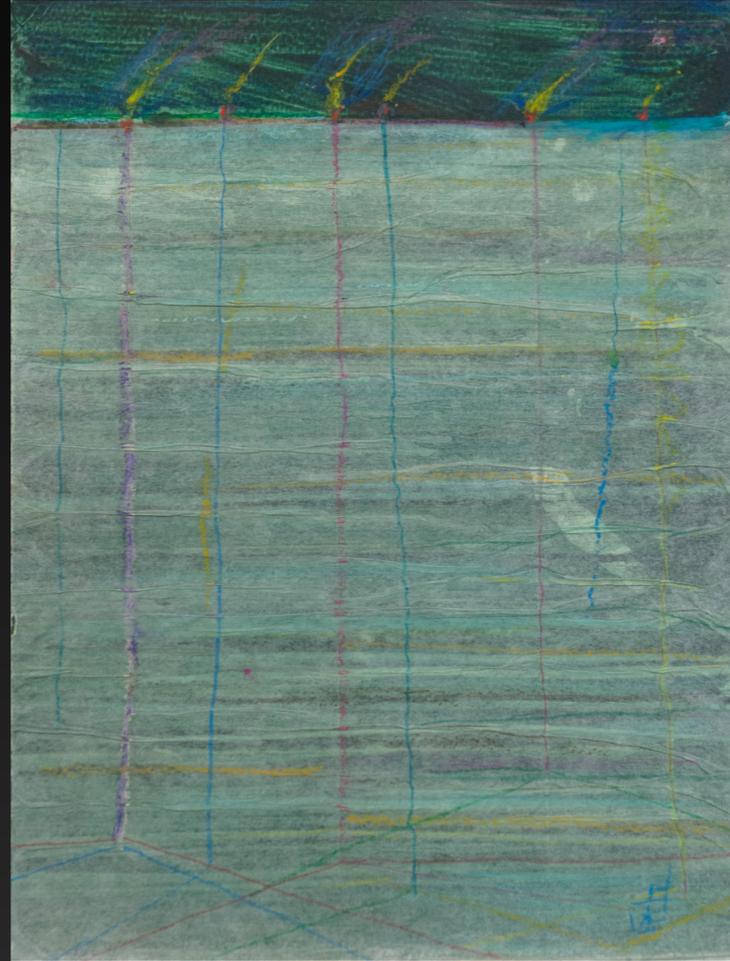

They would drill the sky oil on canvas 24 x 30

Drawings

Methane multimedia 5.5 x 8.75

Methane collage 9 x 12

Methane1.jpg

Methane2.jpg

Methane3.jpg

Methane4.jpg

Methane5.jpg

Methane6.jpg

Methane7.jpg

Methane8.jpg

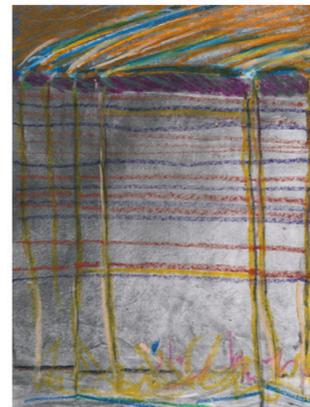

Methane9.jpg

Methane10.jpg

Methane11.jpg

Methane12.jpg

Methane13.jpg

Methane14.jpg

Methane15.jpg

Methane16.jpg

Sixteen methane drawings 8.5 x 11 each

For more information, please contact

Tim Walsh
timwalsh@timwalsh.us